

Better than caffeine

Siberian Ginseng has long been studied for its effects on stamina, endurance and general well-being and Ginkgo Biloba has been used to improve blood flow to the extremities of the body.

Why supplement with Siberian Ginseng or Ginkgo Biloba?

Siberian Ginseng has been shown to possess a number of beneficial properties, and helps to:

- Relieve nervous tension and mild anxiety
- Improve stamina and endurance
- Increase alertness
- Improve the body's ability to handle stress

Siberian Ginseng is also well known as a traditional aid in the maintenance of general well-being.

The constituents of Ginkgo Biloba (such as Ginkgolides and bilobalides) help increase blood circulation to the brain and the extremities, thereby improving the supply of oxygen and the uptake of glucose. Ginkgo Biloba improves peripheral circulation by strengthening blood vessels and reducing the stickiness of blood platelets, which can help blood circulate more easily.

Ginkgo Biloba helps to maintain memory function and has strong antioxidant properties as well. This helps protect the essential fatty cells of the brain and nervous system from free radical attack and oxidation.
